
Scotty, Saskatchewan's T. rex arrives at Regina International Airport in time for Megamunch's 65,000,029 birthday!

A special passenger arrived at Regina International Airport (YQR) and on time for Megamunch's 65,000,029 birthday celebration! YQR welcomes its newest and oldest guest – a cast of the skull of Scotty, Saskatchewan's T. rex courtesy of the Royal Saskatchewan Museum (RSM) in the Arrivals Hall.

Scotty is one of the most complete and largest T. rexes ever found. The display allows guests to get up close, examine and take a picture with this beast, who has a skull that is almost 2 meters long and serrated teeth the size of bananas. This makes the skull a special treat for YQR's arriving guests and visitors as it allows them to take a few souvenir selfies with this unique exhibit.

YQR continues to work with our local attractions and community partners to showcase the many unique and engaging experiences Regina and southern Saskatchewan have to offer. Stay tuned for more great happenings at YQR!
